Motorcycle Safety

Cycling requires some special knowledge and skills that beginning riders will probably not have. If you think that cycling is the same as driving a car, with no further preparation needed, you are wrong. Accident rates are high, and the cyclist must be constantly on the alert to avoid dangerous situations. Cycles are not always equally accepted on the highway by other drivers. Riders must be especially careful of changes in road and weather conditions. Statistics show that 60 percent of all accidents happen to those with less than one year of riding experience.

TAKE THIS COURSE IF:

- If you want to learn how to safely ride a motorcycle.
- If you would like to acquire a Class M (motorcycle) license.
- If you are an experienced cyclist and want to learn safe riding skills.

Southwest Tech offers a course providing classroom and on-range riding experience to make you a knowledgeable and safer cyclist.

Your cycle training will involve classroom instruction where you learn about your cycle and its operation. You'll learn riding techniques and how to deal with all riding situations.

Your training also includes cycle riding experience on a safe course away from traffic. Here, you learn the basic skills of shifting, turning, braking, and other skills that allow you to become a safe rider.

This course is approved by the Motorcycle Safety Foundation, known nationwide as the leader in the field of motorcycle safety.

The beginner classes will start in April and run throughout the year. Classes will be offered at Southwest Wisconsin Technical College in Fennimore.

Due to legislation, if you successfully pass the Motorcycle Safety Course and already have a valid Wisconsin driver's license, you may receive a Class M license, provided other licensing requirements are met, without taking a riding skills test at the Driver's License Examiners.
